TUESDAY EVEN'G, DEC. 6, 1887.

A Word to Advertisers.

The merchant who thoroughly advertises his goods generally catches most of the trade.

The holidays are approaching and those who wish to advertise in THE EVENING BULLETIN should speak at once, as the space is being rapidly taken.

The WEEKLY BULLETIN has a wide circulation and merchants can not find a better medium through which to reach the farmers and country people.

If you have bargains in holiday goods let the people know it, and your store will be the first they will seek on coming to town.

It's a wise speculator who knows when to quit the deal.

HARRY TAYLOR announces himself as a candidate for re-election to the office of City Clerk. He has filled the position for several terms so acceptably and so efficiently that he is not apt to have any opposition at the approaching election.

ANOTHER excellent citizen is added to the list of candidates to-day. Mr. Thomas A. Keith announces himself as a candidate for Wood and Coal Inspector. With two such good men seeking the position as Messrs. Keith and Kneerem it will be a difficult matter to make choice.

Stock and Crops.

California is now credited with the fastest trotting records at one, two, three and four years olds, viz: Norlaine, yearling, 2:31; Wildflower, two years, 2:21; Sable Wilkes, three years, 2:18; Manzanita, four years, 2:16.

Fredericksburg, Va., has a big pickle factory that is supplied with cucumbers from the lands adjoining the city. This season the supply has reached 30,000,000 cucumbers, those engaged in their production furnishing from 200,000 to 1,000,000 each. An acre will produce 100,000, and they sell in Fredericksburg at 80 cents per 1,000. The object is to get them an inch or an inch and a half long, and this requires active picking before they increase this size. A boy will pick 5,000 in a day. Picking thus early increases the productiveness of the vine, and, while the season lasts, others are appearing in place of those taken from the vine.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

MAYSLICK.

A very fine musical and literary entertainment was given at "Forest Home," the residence of Squire Hiram Dye, on Saturday night last, in honor of Mrs. Lou Ross. The program was given by some excellent selections. Mrs. Lou Ross and Miss Jennie Gaywood acted alternately as piano accompanists. Recitations were given in great variety by Mrs. Lou Ross and Miss Maggie Dye, interspersed with generous contributions. Among the guests from a distance were Dr. and Mrs. Dye, Miss Miley Howe, Mr. Dan Stockdale, Miss Runyon, A. West and T. Dillon, Fairview; Miss Nanette Clarke, Milburnburg. A fair attendance of local guests and belles gave increased interest to the most delightful evening. The supper was one that would have reflected credit on a professional caterer. Mr. Hiram Dye, assisted by Mrs. David Dye, did all in their power to make this one of the brightest of "Forest Home" evenings.

SHANNON.

The second of those musical evenings that have transpired at the home of the Misses Bland, "Point Pleasant," came off last Saturday night. Miss Nanette Bland presided at the organ, and all the best and newest of Sam Jones' revival songs were rendered most admirably. The visitors who enjoyed the harmonies of the evening were Misses Lucy and Lulu Myall and Messrs. W. H. Hopper and John Clarke, of Mayslick; Miss Anna Pyles, of Cluckinatti; Misses Alice Bally, Fannie, Mulliken, Anna Arthur, Len Browning, of Shannon; Dr. Anderson, of Sardinia, and Mr. North, of Minerva. The Misses Bland dispense a hospitality to all which enhances its value. They make "Point Pleasant" very attractive to visitors.

Life in the Paris Sewers, is possible, for a short time to the robust, but the majority of refined persons would prefer immediate death to existence in their reeking atmosphere. How much more revolting to be in one's self a living sewer. But this is actually the case with those in whom the inactivity of the liver drives the refuse matter of the body to escape through the lungs, breath, the pores, kidneys and bladder. It is astonishing that life remains in such a dwelling. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" restores normal purity to the system and renews the whole being.

River News.

The river is about on a stand here. Fog delayed all the packets this morning.

The coal boats which left Pittsburg last week passed here to-day.

The Buckeye Boy landed some coal at this place and Aberdeen this morning.

"Her face so fair, as flesh it seemed not. But heavenly portrait of bright angel's hue, Clear as the sky, without a blemish or blot, Through goodly mixture of complexions due, And in her cheeks the vermeil red did show."

This is the poet's description of a woman whose physical system was in a perfectly sound and healthy state, with every function acting properly, and is the enviable condition of its fair patrons produced by Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Any druggist.

JUDGE WALTON'S DECISION.

Dismissing the Warrant Against Thos. M. Green and Discharging Him From Custody.

Judge Matt Walton presided at the examining trial of Mr. Thomas M. Green, at Lexington, the result of which was mentioned yesterday. The Daily Press says the Judge delivered in substance the following:

That he had listened with pleasure to the argument of the learned counsel in this case, and thought as far as possible they had divested themselves of the natural prejudices incident to their positions, and had endeavored to aid the court in arriving at a proper conclusion. He had no trouble about the law of the case, but it had been a task to carry correctly in his mind the testimony of the sixteen witnesses introduced by the Commonwealth and the thirty introduced by the defense, and to harmonize some conflicting statements; yet they were such as naturally arise when a combat is witnessed by many persons. The defendant was charged with murder, and it was the court's duty to say whether he be guilty of murder or voluntary manslaughter or whether he acted in self-defense. He classified the testimony under four heads. First, the threats; second, the meeting and the language used; third, the blows; and fourth the shots.

The card of Colonel Baldwin in the Commercial Gazette, and the uncontradicted testimony of Dunlap and Lair, showed that he was deeply aggrieved over an article written by the defendant, and that he proposed to demand personal satisfaction upon meeting him. This fact, and Baldwin's general reputation, Dunlap apprised defendant of. The court said that the prosecution contended that the article written by Green was slanderous. It may have been; it was not offered in evidence, only the fact proven by Mr. Dunlap that Green had written an article reflecting on Baldwin's character, and that the latter had published a response denouncing him. Even granting that this did not put them on equal terms, and that Colonel Baldwin had the right on meeting Green to demand an apology, when Green refused to give one, then, under the law, Mr. Baldwin's only remedy was to hold him and his paper responsible in the courts of the country, but the deceased chose to denounce Green in unmeasured terms. That under the case of Nichols vs. the Commonwealth—If Bush—that mere words, however insulting, could not be accepted as an excuse for blows, or to mitigate a homicide. Yet the preponderance of the testimony showed that in addition to the opprobrious words, Colonel Baldwin, at the time he used them, was shaking his left hand at the defendant, and had his right hand under his coat on his hip pocket. A number of witnesses swearing that at the time Green rushed on him that deceased was drawing his pistol—others say that he had gotten it out; without further acts this was a sufficient legal provocation to reduce the offense from murder to voluntary manslaughter. Was it this?

A number of witnesses testify that when Green rushed upon him he struck him, some say with his open hand, others say that he grabbed him; all agree that Green struck him before they separated, but that prior to this Baldwin had struck him over the eye with his pistol, and had jabbed him both in front and in the back, a number swearing that he tried to pull the pistol off, but couldn't, while he may have been true from the peculiar character of the pistol.

Up to the time of the separation the defendant by the testimony of all had not drawn any deadly weapon. After getting several steps apart it was likewise shown that Baldwin had his pistol leveled on Green, and the latter reached his hand into his overcoat pocket and drew his pistol. Here the firing commenced, seven witnesses for the Commonwealth swearing that Green fired first and hit—five for the defense that Baldwin fired first, all agreeing that the first and second shots were in rapid succession. The Court said that the law of the case was: If the accused believed or had reasonable grounds to believe that when Baldwin drew his pistol, either in the scuffle or when it was leveled at him after their separation, that he was in imminent danger of loss of life or great bodily harm at the hands of Baldwin, and that this could only be averted by his killing him, the law gives him the right to do so, and excuses him on the grounds of self-defense, although this supposed danger had no real existence. This law is well settled by a long line of cases, from Rapp vs. Commonwealth—14th B. M.—down to and including Holloway vs. Commonwealth—11. Bush—and Luby vs. Commonwealth—12 Bush. The Court thought that no Court could say that the defendant did not have such grounds, and that the danger was both apparent and real. The defendant was therefore discharged.

The Judge said that he deeply regretted the tragedy; that the defendant was but a slight acquaintance of his and the deceased a warm personal friend, but that the law and the great weight of the evidence must decide the case.

Dr. G. Goldstein.

By special request Dr. Goldstein will be in Maysville on the 9th inst. at 12 o'clock, and will remain here till the 11th and positively no longer. Those wishing to consult him in regard to their eyes should call then at Heiser's Hotel.
